

NPPC Pork Alliance

Together We're Stronger...

WHO IS NPPC?

The National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) is an organization of pork producers who believe in the need to advocate for their industry. Through NPPC's voluntary investor programs, producers, allied industry companies, packers, processors and other swine industry stakeholders' interests are represented in the legislative, regulatory and trade arenas nationally.

WHY JOIN THE PORK ALLIANCE?

Pork Alliance membership in NPPC gives allied industry companies an opportunity to support producers in public policy efforts. It is self-evident under current economic conditions that this relationship is mutually beneficial; producers know the vendors to the industry serving them support their grassroots efforts while the entire pork industry benefits from a successful producer/vendor network with favorable policy decisions and communication.

"The National Pork Producers Council began when a group of producers gathered and acknowledged the need for activism on behalf of their livelihood in the political realm. They recognized their individual voices were amplified when they worked together to advocate for reasonable legislation, regulation and increased trade opportunities. The same thought defines Pork Alliance."

- NPPC CEO Neil Dierks
